

Welcome!

The whole culinary delight of China which distinguishes Chinese from European cooking depends On the art of mixing and blending of colors, aroma, flavors and texture of food. Among the four regional culinary styles, the northern gourmet of Peking has been crowned as the king of Chinese cuisine, reflecting the fact that the emperor and his courtiers recruited the best chefs in China and encouraged them to develop new dishes.

Being committed to the culinary art of living, we, Northern Chinese, wish to share with our guests the wonderful moment together in appreciation for this beautiful and merry art of living. Our courtesy and cooking will certainly make your visit the most enjoyable experience to remember.

What Our Name Means?

Kirin (Keer'-in) n. Oriental Mythology. Half dragon, half deer, the ancient Kirin has endured as a symbol of the majesty and vitality of good fortune.

The first appearance of Kirin, a legendary Chinese Creature, was well before the days of Confucius, more than 2500 years ago. One beautiful night, a lovely young lady, En Chen Tsai, was taking a stroll in her garden and was suddenly mantled with Kirin's sacred breath which gave her mysterious vigor. About nine months later, she gave birth to Confucius. Since then, a legend goes: Kirin never failed to appear whenever a Chinese saint was born, and still now Kirin's worshipped as a harbinger of happy and festive events.
